A FEW TIPS FOR HOLIDAY MAKERS

Holidays should be a time to relax and have fun. ¹ —
A holiday can be ruined the moment you step into the hotel. Hotel managers know how to make their accommodation look perfect with websites full of colourful, atmospheric photos. However, what looked so nice on the Internet is often different in reality. Now, though, you no longer need to fear such unpleasant surprises. You can read reviews written by other holiday makers. Some people say that the reviews aren't always written by real travellers. ² If, after reading the reviews, you do choose a badly rated 'bargain', you only have yourself to blame.

Travelling is also a source of many problems. Airports are especially stressful. Next year, if you aren't going too far, why not go by car? There are no queues or security checks and you can pack more than 20kg of belongings. ³ France is full of beautiful towns which you can stop off at when you travel to Spain or Italy.

So, you have arrived in comfort, the hotel is perfect. What can go wrong now? ⁴ Many people see insurance as an unnecessary expense and, it is true, you rarely need it. However, if you do get ill or are robbed, you'll realise what a bargain insurance can be. Your insurance document should be as much a necessity as your passport and credit card.

Some people, though, still come back from holiday less relaxed than when they left even when everything goes well. Why? Many hotels offer excursions or tours, often free of charge or at bargain rates. ⁵ However, before signing up to another visit to a castle, museum or market, remember, you are on holiday to relax. Leave a few days free to lie on the beach or go sightseeing on your own, at your own pace. You may come back with fewer photos and souvenirs but is that really a bad thing?

- A A lot of things, unfortunately.
- B Remember that overspending also causes stress.
- C However, most are and the others are usually easy to recognise.
- D You might think you should go on as many as possible.
- E If you follow this advice, they can be.
- F That's why location is also so important.
- G What's more, you can see interesting places on the way.
